Note: Due to the rapidly changing case law regarding the categorical and modified categorical approaches, the court must always engage in a new analysis of whether or not an offense matches a generic offense, unless there is precedential case law on the particular statute at issue and decided after Mathis v. United States, 136 S. Ct. 2243 (2016). See also Descamps v. United States, 133 S. Ct. 2276 (2013).

If a section is left blank, no case law was found; this chart is a starting point and not exhaustive.
